Dear Parents/Guardians,

Happy 100th Day of School! With the weather we've had this week, I was wondering if we were going to make it!

In reading, we are continuing to work on informational text and writing, blending and substituting phonemes, counting syllables in words, and reading grade-level text. We introduced the high frequency words go, here, soon, for, they and up. Please continue to practice reading with your child each evening as well as work on identifying high frequency sight words and reviewing letters and sounds.

In Math, we are continuing to practice basic addition using manipulatives, pictures, and word problems. With the snow days, we will continue to review next week before we have our unit test. Be sure to be practicing number facts each evening as well as counting to 100, subitizing, and number recognition.

In Health, we discussed germs and how to prevent them through thorough hand-washing, covering their mouths with their elbows, exercising, healthy eating, and getting plenty of rest.

Book order forms were sent home and are due February 10th. Thank you to those who have placed orders in the past. This helps our classroom get more books for our classroom library as well as other needed learning aids. It is truly appreciated!
